

Obstacles to Opportunities: Integrating iPads Into an IEP Curriculum

Katie Mitchell and Michelle Scholz

Background

- INTO Oregon State University
 - 1,170 students
 - 80 instructors
- Fall 2011: iPad Cart with 30 iPads purchased
- 2011/2012: 1 year pilot
- Fall 2012: iPad cart available to all

Benefits

- Enhance learning
- Engage students
- Provide equal access
- Collaboration

Example Activities

- Practice Speeches and Noticing Genres
- QR Scavenger Hunt
- Collaboration through Google Drive
- High tech graphic organizers with Popplet
- Role plays with less anxiety through Puppet Pals
- Annotating and discussing pictures with Educreations
-

App Review: Good apps...

- Have a clear and intuitive user interface
- Align with teaching goals
- Have a reasonable cost
- Are unique
- Include assessment and/or sharing features

Training Recommendations

- Give people time to experiment
- Encourage them to use it in their personal lives
- Provide one-on-one support
- Offer opportunities to share

Follow us at:
technologyinterest.
wordpress.com

Obstacles to Opportunities: Integrating iPads Into an IEP Curriculum

Katie Mitchell and Michelle Scholz

Background

- INTO Oregon State University
 - 1,170 students
 - 80 instructors
- Fall 2011: iPad Cart with 30 iPads purchased
- 2011/2012: 1 year pilot
- Fall 2012: iPad cart available to all

Benefits

- Enhance learning
- Engage students
- Provide equal access
- Collaboration

Example Activities

- Practice Speeches and Noticing Genres
- QR Scavenger Hunt
- Collaboration through Google Drive
- High tech graphic organizers with Popplet
- Role plays with less anxiety through Puppet Pals
- Annotating and discussing pictures with Educreations

App Review: Good apps...

- Have a clear and intuitive user interface
- Align with teaching goals
- Have a reasonable cost
- Are unique
- Include assessment and/or sharing features

Training Recommendations

- Give people time to experiment
- Encourage them to use it in their personal lives
- Provide one-on-one support
- Offer opportunities to share

Follow us at:
technologyinterest.
wordpress.com